FRENCH GUARDS FIGHT STRIKERS AT AUTO PLANT

PARIS, Nov. 25.—(UP)—Workers fought mobile guards and police at the Renault automobile plant today while a series of strikes involving almost 100,000 men in all parts of France grew increasingly serious.

Premier Edouard Daladier personally took over the ministry of the interior to forcibly put down the strikes. Albert Sarraut, the minister of the interior, is in Turkey.

Tomorrow 5,000,000 workers are scheduled to join the strikers with a "folded arms" demonstration against Daladier's new decree laws which would wipe out such social measures as the 40-hour week.

Workers today awaited action by the executive council of the French confederation of labor which was to set a date and discuss plans for a general strike already authorized.

Vital armament industries were affected by today's strikes and this was particularly embarrassing to the government in the midst of its discussions with Great Britain of a unified defense plan.

At the Renault plant, 20 police and mobile guards were injured in the battle to evacuate workers, some 450 of whom were arrested. Charged with rioting, they can be sentenced to prison.

Police used tear gas in driving 2,000 strikers from the large Renault plant which is working on government aviation and other armament contracts.

In Various Requests
For Funds

Circleville's 1939 tax rate was set at $14.60 per $1,000 on real estate valuation, the same as the 1938 rate, Friday by the county budget commission.

The commission, consisting of Auditor Forrest Short, Treasurer Robert Colville and Prosecutor George Gerhardt, opened the first of its two-day series of budget hearings. The next group of hearings will be held next Tuesday.

Rates that had been established up to noon were Circleville township $6.70, Circleville school district $8.50 and Darby township $11.60. All rates established during the morning were the same as those of last year.

County Rate Same

The county rate set by the commission, applicable to all districts, was 3.40 mills, or $3.40 per $1,000 valuation, the same rate as used last year. This levy includes 3.10 mills inside the 10-mill limitation and .30 of a mill outside.

The city's rate, in addition to the county levy includes Circleville township, .20 of a mill for the general fund and .10 of a mill for the road fund, both inside the 10-mill limitation; Circleville schools, .20 of a mill inside the limitation and three mills outside for the general fund and .9 of a mill inside and .7 of a mill outside for bonds, and Circleville corporation, 4.50 mills inside the limitation for the general fund and .9 of a mill inside and .7 of a mill outside for bonds.

Higher Than In 1937

The Circleville tax rate in 1937 was $13.80. In 1938 it moved upward due to the bonds issued for the municipal disposal plant and the addition to the high school and Corwin street buildings.

The commission said budgets of the districts considered during the morning were practically the same as those last year making the rates the same.

O. handlers said they would not allow anyone to enter the yards to handle arriving receipts.

BRATISLAVA, Czechoslovakia, Nov. 25.—(UP)—Tens of thousands of picked troops were concentrated today along the frontiers of Ruthenia autonomous Czechoslovakia state, to repel any invasion by Poland or Hungary.

Although terrorist activities continued it was not believed that either nation would attack if Germany insists on the new Czech boundaries worked out at Vienna. Some quarters predicted that Germany would immediately occupy the Hungarian frontier town of Sopron should the Hungarians attempt to carry out its demand for a common frontier with Poland by seizing Ruthenia.

Fire Menaces Film Stars' Homes

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 25.—(UP)—A brush fire that has destroyed 600 homes today raged in Mandeville canyon where Shirley Temple and other movie stars live.

Four hundred city firemen and pump trucks were in the canyon attempting to keep the flames from the palatial residences.

Fire officials said that the blaze was within half a mile of some of the homes. It crept over the bridge from Sullivan canyon, the next one beyond, and slipped down the slope of Mandeville canyon. Crews started back-fires in an effort to keep the blaze from reaching the canyon floor and the 50 to 100 fashionable homes and estates.

Germans May Dissolve Aryan-Jewish Families

BERLIN, Nov. 25.—(UP)—The police round-up of Jews gained momentum today coincident with a new wave of Jewish suicides and a reported government plan to dissolve Aryan-Jewish marriages. About 300 Jews were arrested in Vienna. Most of these were Jews without nationality or Polish and Rumanian Jews whose citizenship was not recognized.

Reports in Vienna said that more than 70 Jews had died as a consequence of the new levy on fortunes of over $2,000. The deaths were attributed to suicide, shock and other causes.

A well-informed source in Berlin understood that one of the next anti-Jewish measures would be a law virtually forcing the dissolution of all Aryan-Jewish marriages.

The law would make divorce for these Aryans easy instructing courts to grant Aryans divorces from Jews merely on application.

In Jewish Category

The decree would place all Aryans, who did not take advantage of it in the same category as Jews, hence they would not be permitted to operate a business, practice a profession, or draw pensions.

It was expected that practically all Aryans married to Jews would divorce them, if the law is decreed, in order to escape being classed as Jewish and also, in many cases, to be able to keep their Jewish partner after divorce. Jews living in buildings owned by municipal or other public corporations were receiving notices today that they must vacate within a period of two or three months.

Although officially there is no law yet preventing them from renting other residences, it is increasingly difficult for Jews to find homes. In many cases they are forced to move in with other Jewish families.

Observers said this move was the first step toward segregation of the Jews and was resigned to force Jews having large apartments to share them with other Jews.

A new order prohibited persons of part Jewish parentage, although eligible for compulsory military service, to advance higher in the army than lance corporal. This is the rank Fuehrer Adolf Hitler attained in the World War.

About 300 Jews were arrested in Vienna. Most of these were Jews without nationality or Polish and Rumanian Jews whose citizenship was not recognized.

Reports in Vienna said that more than 70 Jews had died as a consequence of the new levy on fortunes of over $2,000. The deaths were attributed to suicide, shock and other causes.

A well-informed source in Berlin understood that one of the next anti-Jewish measures would be a law virtually forcing the dissolution of all Aryan-Jewish marriages.

The law would make divorce for these Aryans easy instructing courts to grant Aryans divorces from Jews merely on application.

In Jewish Category The decree would place all Aryans, who did not take advantage of it in the same category as Jews, hence they would not be permitted to operate a business, practice a profession, or draw pensions.

It was expected that practically all Aryans married to Jews would divorce them, if the law is decreed, in order to escape being classed as Jewish and also, in many cases, to be able to keep their Jewish partner after divorce.

Jews living in buildings owned by municipal or other public corporations were receiving notices today that they must vacate within a period of two or three months.

Although officially there is no law yet preventing them from renting other residences, it is increasingly difficult for Jews to find homes. In many cases they are forced to move in with other Jewish families.

Observers said this move was the first step toward segregation of the Jews and was resented to force Jews having large apartments to share them with other Jews.

A new order prohibited persons of part Jewish parentage, although eligible for compulsory military service, to advance higher in the army than lance corporal. This is the rank Fuehrer Adolf Hitler attained in the World War.

Miss Helen Glick daughter of Charles and Mrs. Glick is reported seriously sick at the sanatorium at Delaware.

This week, finishes up three months of the 1938-39 school year and all too soon we'll be talking about the Commencement season. During these three months we've seen the best attendance we have ever had for so long a time; an unusually fine spirit of cooperation all around; the introduction of regular visual education programs and the ground work prepared for a two room addition to our building.

Most of our teachers spent the Thanksgiving vacation in or near Ashville but Miss Conrad went to Huntington to be with her folk.

The First and Second grades had a combined Thanksgiving program Wednesday with many mothers present. Miss Nern and Miss Kuhn are the teachers of these grades.

NEW YOUTH UNIT TO BRING PROBE BY AUTHORITIES

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 25 — (UP)—County authorities began a thorough investigation today of a "black shirt" organization of high school boys and girls reported to have drilled with guns at secret meetings and boasted that they were seeking a "bloodless change in the economic order."

Assistant County Attorney E. W. Brown said he would call in all known members of the society for questioning. He had not decided whether the youths were perpetrating a joke, or whether, as some teachers feared, they had been organized by adults. It was reported that there were similar high school societies in New York, Chicago, St. Louis, Los Angeles and Youngstown, O.

Brown said "we are going to get to the bottom of this matter, regardless."

The organization was discovered when authorities investigated the absence from classes of several students of Central and Clatsen high schools. When questioned, the youths said they had been at "C?C" meetings. "C?C" was the symbol of their secret "Curiosity Club," they said.

The club was directed by "Commissioner" Milton Walser, 17, of Central high school, and "Vice-Commissioner" Manfred Ishmael, 18, of Clatsen. Its uniform, for boys and girls alike, consisted of black shirts, trousers and boots. The boys were growing mustaches.

It is Paramount's "King of Alcatraz," which is showing Saturday only on a double feature program with Charles Starrett at the Cliftona Theatre.

"King of Alcatraz," which features Gail Patrick, Lloyd Nolan and J. Carroll Naish heading a cast of film favorites, shows the escapee killed—J. Carroll Naish—boarding a coastal ship in disguise, accompanied by his henchmen. Once out to sea, the gang pirates the ship to gain possession. Nolan and Robert Preston, a promising screen newcomer, who portray the two radio operators on board the steamer, are overpowered and made prisoners, as are Ship's Nurse Gail Patrick and the rest of the crew. It is Naish's idea to turn the ship ashore in one of the Central American republics and there vanish into the interior, where he hopes to elude his pursuers.

U. S. Delegation Leaves For Conference in Peru

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—(UP)—The American delegation, headed by Secretary of State Cordell Hull, sails today for Lima, Peru, and the eighth Pan American conference.

Indicative of the close relationship of European events to the conference, Hull's final hour in America was devoted to Hugh Wilson, American ambassador to Germany, who had just returned to the United States on urgent orders from Hull and President Roosevelt for "report and consultation" regarding Germany's anti-Semitic program.

Wilson, on the S. S. Manhattan, arrives an hour or two before Hull's ship, the Grace liner Santa Clara, sails. Authorities made arrangement to transfer Wilson by cutter direct from the Manhattan, when it reached quarantine, to the Santa Clara. Later Wilson will proceed to Warm Springs, Ga., to report directly to President Roosevelt.

May Change Attitude

It was believed his conference with Hull would have an important bearing on the United States delegation's attitude toward several internationally important questions on the Pan American conference agenda.

The last-minute conference was given added importance in its bearing on the forthcoming Pan American meeting by the presence aboard the Santa Clara of the conference delegations of Mexico, Colombia and Venezuela.

In addition to Hull, the United States delegation includes: Alf M. Landon, former governor of Kansas and 1936 Republican candidate for President; Adolf A. Berle, Jr., assistant secretary of state; R. Henry Norweb, U. S. minister to the Dominican republic; Emilio Del Toro Cuevas, chief justice of the supreme court of Puerto Rico; Green H. Hackworth, legal adviser to the state department; the Rev. John F. O'Hara, president of Notre Dame university; Charles C. Fenwick, professor of international law at Bryan Mawr college; Dan W. Tracy, president of the International Brotherhood of Electrical workers; Miss Kathryn Lewis, executive assistant to her father, John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America and head of the C. I. O.; Mrs. Elsie F. Musser, member of the people's mandate committee.

Language Reform Urged

MELBOURNE — (UP) — A reform of the English language which would avoid the tiresome repetition of phrases like "he or she" "him or her" and "his or her," especially in legal documents, is proposed by Gregory Hynes, an Australian lawyer.

CHIEF OF NAVY URGED TO RUSH NEW DEFENSES

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—(UP)—Secretary of Navy Swanson received a report today from the Naval Bureau of Aeronautics urging a speed up in the expansion of the naval air force lest the United States fall behind other nations in air defense.

In his annual report, Rear Admiral A. B. Cook, chief of the aeronautics bureau, suggested construction of adequate shore stations and the purchase of the best available aircraft to hasten President Roosevelt's $1,000,000,000 naval expansion program.

He emphasized the need of shore stations on the Atlantic coast, but specifically recommended improvements and development of air facilities on the Pacific coast.

Cook's recommendations were:

1. Actively pursue development of shore stations and facilities in keeping with present and in anticipation of the increased requirements of the fleet as a consequence of the naval expansion program.
2. Provide an adequate number

How To Relieve Misery of Your CHEST COLD

If you are suffering from a miserable chest cold, try this: Massage throat, chest, and back with Vicks VapoRub at bedtime. Then spread a thick layer on chest and cover with warm cloth. VapoRub goes right to work to bring relief—two ways at once. (1) Direct through the skin like a poultice; (2) Direct to the irritated air-passages with its medicated vapors.

This poultice-vapor action loosens phlegm—clears air-passages—checks tendency to cough—relieves local congestion.

As the title indicates, the picture deals with the exploits of a group of freshmen experiencing their first year of college life. In setting action and dialogue it has all of the gaiety, sparkle and modernity, as well as the worries and pressing problems, of present-day college youth.

The supporting cast includes Stanley Hughes, Frank Melton and Speck O'Donnell. In addition there are specialty songs by the Murrah Sisters and the Lucky Seven.

Missouri Expects Oil Boom
TRENTON, Mo. (UP)—Oil companies have leased a large area in north central Missouri and there is a possibility that Missouri may soon be listed among the oil-producing states. It is estimated that at least 300,000 acres of land is already under lease in the six-county area around Trenton.

U. S. Delegation Leaves For Conference in Peru

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—(UP)—The American delegation, headed by Secretary of State Cordell Hull, sails today for Lima, Peru, and the eighth Pan American conference.

Indicative of the close relationship of European events to the conference, Hull's final hour in America was devoted to Hugh Wilson, American ambassador to Germany, who had just returned to the United States on urgent orders from Hull and President Roosevelt for "report and consultation" regarding Germany's anti-Semitic program.

Wilson, on the S. S. Manhattan, arrives an hour or two before Hull's ship, the Grace liner Santa Clara, sails. Authorities made arrangement to transfer Wilson by cutter direct from the Manhattan, when it reached quarantine, to the Santa Clara. Later Wilson will proceed to Warm Springs, Ga., to report directly to President Roosevelt.

May Change Attitude
It was believed his conference with Hull would have an important bearing on the United States delegation's attitude toward several internationally important questions on the Pan American conference agenda.

The last-minute conference was given added importance in its bearing on the forthcoming Pan American meeting by the presence aboard the Santa Clara of the conference delegations of Mexico, Colombia and Venezuela.

In addition to Hull, the United States delegation includes: Alf M. Landon, former governor of Kansas and 1936 Republican candidate for President; Adolf A. Berle, Jr., assistant secretary of state; R. Henry Norweb, U. S. minister to the Dominican republic; Emilio Del Toro Cuevas, chief justice of the supreme court of Puerto Rico; Green H. Hackworth, legal adviser to the state department; the Rev. John F. O'Hara, president of Notre Dame university; Charles C. Fenwick, professor of international law at Bryan Mawr college; Dan W. Tracy, president of the International Brotherhood of Electrical workers; Miss Kathryn Lewis, executive assistant to her father, John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America and head of the C. I. O.; Mrs. Elsie F. Musser, member of the people's mandate committee.

Language Reform Urged
MELBOURNE.—(UP)—A reform of the English language which would avoid the tiresome repetition of phrases like "he or she," "him or her" and "his or her," especially in legal documents, is proposed by Gregory Hynes, an Australian lawyer.

CHIEF OF NAVY URGED TO RUSH NEW DEFENSES

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—(UP)—Secretary of Navy Swanson received a report today from the Naval Bureau of Aeronautics urging a speed up in the expansion of the naval air force lest the United States fall behind other nations in air defense.

In his annual report, Rear Admiral A. B. Cook, chief of the aeronautics bureau, suggested construction of adequate shore stations and the purchase of the best available aircraft to hasten President Roosevelt's $1,000,000,000 naval expansion program.

He emphasized the need of shore stations on the Atlantic coast, but specifically recommended improvements and development of air facilities on the Pacific coast.

Cook's recommendations were:

1. Actively pursue development of shore stations and facilities in keeping with present and in anticipation of the increased requirements of the fleet as a consequence of the naval expansion program.
2. Provide an adequate number

How To Relieve Misery of Your CHEST COLD
If you are suffering from a miserable chest cold, back with Vicks VapoRub at bedtime. Then spread a thick layer on chest and cover with warm cloth. VapoRub goes right to work to bring relief—two ways at once.
(1) Direct through the skin like a poultice; (2) Direct to the irritated air-passages with its medicated vapors.
This poultice-vapor action loosens phlegm—clears air-passages—checks tendency to cough—relieves local congestion.
Often, by morning the worst of the cold is over.

PASTORS TO AID SEAL CAMPAIGN FROM PULPITS

Ministers Include Plea In Sermons Planned For Sunday

"PROBLEM EVERYBODY'S"

Campaign Continues On Until Christmas Day

Pastors of Pickaway county churches will urge their congregations to co-operate in the fight against tuberculosis on Nov. 27, designated as Christmas Seal Sunday by the Pickaway County Public Health League.

"Here is a cause in which all churches can unite," said Rev. Robert T. Kelsey of the Presbyterian church. "Tuberculosis is everybody's problem. The theme of this year's Christmas Seal, 'Protect Your Home From Tuberculosis,' makes the campaign one of special significance to the churches. Tuberculosis is one of the misfortunes which disrupt family life. When a father or mother is stricken, separation from the family is necessary.

"Christmas Seals are doing effective work in preventing tuberculosis and thus are keeping together families which might otherwise be separated. One of the fundamentals of Christianity is preservation of the home. The Christmas Seal campaign offers everyone a simple and practical way of doing a Christian act."

Notices in bulletins, displays of posters, talks before various meetings and the distribution of literature are other ways in which the churches will cooperate in the campaign. The campaign began on Thanksgiving Day and will continue until Christmas.

STARS SAY—

For Friday, November 25

VERY sudden and surprising developments may descend upon the scene today with a precipitancy that might be almost sensational or spectacular, according to the rather mixed planetary forces. The signs indicate unexpected and probably devastating nature; they may bring romantic experiences, upheaval, radical change or a complete reversal of life and its interests. Discretion, wise deliberation and sound judgment are recommended in social, emotional and untried situations.

Those whose birthday it is are on the threshold of a possibly very dramatic year, with much transpiring of a memorable character. Romance, adventure, change and unexpected events may be precipitated with devastating effect on the fortunes and the destiny. At the source of this may be a bereavement, accident, illness, loss or a visitation demanding an entire re-orientation of the interests, especially personal, domestic or social. All call for circumspection and sound consideration rather than whirlwind decisions.

A child born on this day may have rather conflicting traits, with sound ideas, practical habits and methodical attention to details. At the same time, it may have many unorthodox, irregular, unconventional and audacious proclivities. It may have a surprising and thrilling career.

WELL, I'LL TELL YOU—

BY BOB BURNS

I use'ta look upon college students as being pretty much alike, but since I got acquainted with 'em, I've found 'em about as different a bunch individually as I've ever seen. You can fill a big book jest tellin' how some of 'em got to go to college. Some are there because their Maw and Paw wanted to get 'em off of their hands. Some poor boys and girls have'ta work their ways through and one girl told me that she had'ta use strategy because her father was against college education. I asked her how she did it and she says "Well, I told my father that if he didn't send me to college, I would get married and I guess he thought he couldn't afford that!"

PASTORS TO AID SEAL CAMPAIGN FROM PULPITS

"PROBLEM EVERYBODY'S"

Campaign Continues On Until Christmas Day

Pastors of Pickaway county churches will urge their congregations to co-operate in the fight against tuberculosis on Nov. 27, designated as Christmas Seal Sunday by the Pickaway County Public Health League.

"Here is a cause in which all churches can unite," said Rev. Robert T. Kelsey of the Presbyterian church. "Tuberculosis is everybody's problem. The theme of this year's Christmas Seal, 'Protect Your Home From Tuberculosis,' makes the campaign one of special significance to the churches. Tuberculosis is one of the misfortunes which disrupt family life. When a father or mother is stricken, separation from the family is necessary.

"Christmas Seals are doing effective work in preventing tuberculosis and thus are keeping together families which might otherwise be separated. One of the fundamentals of Christianity is preservation of the home. The Christmas Seal campaign offers everyone a simple and practical way of doing a Christian act."

Notices in bulletins, displays of posters, talks before various meetings and the distribution of literature are other ways in which the churches will cooperate in the campaign. The campaign began on Thanksgiving Day and will continue until Christmas.

STARS SAY—

For Friday, November 25 VERY sudden and surprising developments may descend upon the scene today with a precipitancy that might be almost sensational or spectacular, according to the rather mixed planetary forces. The signs indicate unexpected and probably devastating nature; they may bring romantic experiences, upheaval, radical change or a complete reversal of life and its interests. Discretion, wise deliberation and sound judgment are recommended in social, emotional and untried situations.

Those whose birthday it is are on the threshold of a possibly very dramatic year, with much transpiring of a memorable character. Romance, adventure, change and unexpected events may be precipitated with devastating effect on the fortunes and the destiny. At the source of this may be a bereavement, accident, illness, loss or a visitation demanding an entire re-orientation of the interests, especially personal, domestic or social. All call for circumspection and sound consideration rather than whirlwind decisions.

A child born on this day may have rather conflicting traits, with sound ideas, practical habits and methodical attention to details. At the same time, it may have many unorthodox, irregular, unconventional and audacious proclivities. It may have a surprising and thrilling career.

WELL, I'LL TELL YOU.

I use'ta look upon college students as being pretty much alike, but since I got acquainted with 'em, I've found 'em about as different a bunch individually as I've ever seen. You can fill a big book jest tellin' how some of 'em got to go to college. Some are there because their Maw and Paw wanted to get 'em off of their hands. Some poor boys and girls have'ta work their ways through and one girl told me that she had'ta use strategy because her father was against college education. I asked her how she did it and she says "Well, I told my father that if he didn't send me to college, I would get married and I guess he thought he couldn't afford that!"

TO CITIZENS
FRIENDS: "Protect Your Homes From Tuberculosis" is the slogan of the 1938 Christmas Seal campaign, now under way in Circleville, Pickaway county and throughout the nation. It is your duty to your fellowman to participate in the campaign by purchasing and using the tiny seals that mean so much to persons trying to stave off the ravages of the disease. The design of the seal suggests the slogan. A mother and two young children in costumes of the Victorian age are shown lighting a candle in the window of their home. The lighted candle is indicative of the enlightenment on tuberculosis that has been kindled by the Christmas Seals and of their mission of protecting every home from the dread disease. Tuberculosis breaks up more homes than any other disease. If a mother or father is stricken, this means separation from the family if other members are to be protected from the threat of the disease. Tuberculosis usually brings a serious economic problem. Each year tuberculosis claims the lives of 40,000 persons between 15 and 45, the most productive years. Many of these victims are mothers and fathers, who leave young orphaned children to face life alone. Christmas Seals finance a year-round program to control tuberculosis and by so doing, protect all homes from tuberculosis. The sale was started Thanksgiving Day and continues until Christmas.

TO DR. A. D. BLACKBURN
HEALTHIER: You deserve congratulations for the efficiency you showed in providing anti-typhoid tests for several hundred W. P. A. workers who might have been endangered by drinking from a contaminated well in the Darbyville district. No sooner did you learn of a death by typhoid fever than you began checking the possible source of the ailment. An immediate check proved that water from a well which W. P. A. men had been using might have provided the death germs for a young Pickaway county woman. The anti-typhoid tests were started the next day. Project officials and workers cooperated splendidly with you and your office, and today men who might have become afflicted have a splendid chance to escape any ailment. The state department of health provided that it was ready to cooperate by sending a physician to administer the "shots" as soon as the tested water proved contamination. Pickaway county has long needed a health administration such as you are providing.

World At A Glance

"If you were running the New Deal and had the necessary authority or influence, what, in the light of the last election, would you do next?" I put this question to a friend of mine, a friend who occupies an important government post, but he probably wouldn't continue to occupy it much longer if I named him. Anyway, he understands the New Deal thoroughly, and, being an excellent liberal, is in sympathy with it in all its main essentials. "Well," he said, "I immediately would start a genuine, searching investigation of relief. I'd make it clear that I didn't care who might be hit. There undoubtedly is a widespread impression that our relief methods (not relief itself but its administration) have created a national Tammany. I don't say it's true, but I myself suspect it. I'd prove that this suspicion is unfounded, and I'd do it conclusively. Or else I'd prove that it is well founded, and let the suspects take the consequences."
"Next, our new labor laws have worked unsatisfactorily. Employers believed that they're discriminated against. I'm for compulsory collective bargaining all right, but I think maybe the workers should be required to incorporate, accepting a somewhat larger share of responsibility in return for larger rewards. And there should be better provision for mediation in capital-labor disputes. I don't mean compulsory arbitra-

ed that it was ready to cooperate by sending a physician to administer the "shots" as soon as the tested water proved contamination. Pickaway county has long needed a health administration such as you are providing.

VOCALISTS: The hopes of all Pickaway county's grangers go with you next Tuesday evening when you compete against Licking and Meigs county singers in an effort to win the right to participate in the annual Farmers' week program at Ohio State university next February. Grange leaders were indeed fortunate to obtain this final event for Circleville. Many other cities were clamoring for the right to conduct the competition, but your efforts made it possible for Circleville and Pickaway county to enjoy a splendid program. The Pickaway county unit, well trained and able, won from Hocking county in competition several weeks ago and gained quite a name for itself. All hope that the chorus will be able to win the judges' decision in the contest against Licking and Meigs county choruses. Remember, the event is open to the public Tuesday evening and the high school auditorium is the scene. Please be present as early as possible so that all will be seated before the singers start to perform at 8 o'clock.

GRANGER: Other leaders in Pickaway county's splendid granges proved their confidence in your ability as a granger when they named you master of the Pomona unit at the annual election this week. Your work in the Nebraska grange, the dean of the county's groups, has made you well fitted for the mastership. You are stepping into pretty big shoes in taking over the job left by Kenneth Wertman of the Washington grange. The latter has been an excellent master. He has put much time in the work, he has been fair and able, and the granges have benefitted well by having had him as their master. BUSINESSMEN: The program projected at the meeting last week for erection of numerous lighted Christmas trees in the business district should meet with wholehearted approval from all who operate stores. Heretofore the only decoration to speak of was at Court and Main streets. All attention was centered there. Now, the program is planned to use the flag staff holes in front of the various business houses for poles which will hold evergreens that can be lighted. This program will divide attention of potential shoppers. The entire lighted district will prove an outstanding attraction, and its success is a certainty if all merchants will cooperate. AGRICULTURE'S PROBLEM
"The agricultural situation," my friend proceeded, "is a scandal."
"Let me illustrate."
"The other day a chap I know asked me to join him in the purchase of a farm near Washington. 'But,' I replied, 'I'm no farmer.' 'Neither am I,' he assured me. 'We don't need to be.'"
"Then he explained, 'This place,' he said, 'can be had very reasonably. We'll plant it to bluegrass—soil conservation stuff. For conserving our soil we'll get $14 per acre from the government. In two years we'll have an area of fine sod. Such sod, in this part of the country, is salable at hard onto $100 per acre. There's a machine now for scooping it up and rolling it, and it's in brick demand. Our governmental $14 per acre for two years will about half pay for the land, then we'll get $100 per acre for the sod, and can sell the farm at a net profit—or plant more bluegrass, and go on collecting $14 per acre for the bluegrass."
"I don't contend," my friend added, "that sod's worth $100 per acre everywhere, but it is in this

If it isn't, John Customer will discover that fact rather promptly, and send you into the business oblivion you unquestionably deserve. It is the American way, and it is a good way.
Mrs. Sara Sue Davis, Incorporated, was well aware of that. Not so much as a business principle—for she was none too experienced in business—but as a rather obvious American moral principle. In short, she believed it was dishonest, sneaking, mean, to advertise a product or a service which was not as advertised. And she had advertised expert counsel in romance.
One of her most enthusiastic customers had been Mr. Worthington Gurley, almost 18 years old. She had accepted his money and agreed to guide his heart affairs. When Fate diabolically caused Worthington to fall in love with Sara Sue herself, she still did not feel free of obligation.
"He's a cute boy," she admitted, in a serious discussion with her Mother Davis one night. "I've got to stop him from seeing so much of me. I've got a plan, too."
"What, dear?" Mother Davis asked.
"Never mind. I'll tell you about it afterward—if it works. He thinks he's in love with me."
She chose as the scene for her nefarious frame-up the fashionable Montrose Plunge. This swimming pool, in a beautiful country club, is itself a work of art. It is outdoors in summer; indoors and heated in winter with a glass roof. There are many beautiful tile pictures, many potted palms, pretty this and pretty that. Sara Sue agreed to go with Worthington to a "private" swim at 11 o'clock in the morning. It was a day when he had no classes from 10:30 to 1, and an hour when probably nobody else would be swimming. But—Sara Sue said she would go down town first and would meet him at the plunge. That was part of her nefarious plan.
Another nefarious move was to telephone Helen McKean, who was Sara Sue's friend and who weighed 212 pounds and who had a similarly adipose sister.
"Helen, be a pal, will you, honey?" Sara Sue pleaded. "You and Jane meet me for lunch at the Montrose club. And be there, in the pool, by 10:30. Will you? I'll tell you all about it then. Secret!"
The fat McKean girls were good friends of Sara Sue. They readily agreed.
Finally, Sara Sue Davis, Incorporated, telephoned Miss Marcia d'Alaine, of Baton Rouge, Louisiana, now a freshman at Rice institute.
"Marcia, this is Sara Sue Davis. Can you meet me for lunch in the Montrose club? Or better—can you come and swim with me at 10:30 and then have lunch?"
Sara Sue knew very well Marcia could, and would. She had already investigated Marcia's classroom schedule for the morning. She knew Marcia liked her work in fact one of her most enthusiastic customers.
Now Miss Marcia d'Alaine was highly important to Sara Sue's scheme. Miss d'Alaine, 25 per cent French, 75 per cent southern, 100 per cent American, and perhaps 200 per cent beautiful, was in fact the real crux of Sara Sue's plan, although the little freshman didn't know it and never did learn it.
Marcia's height was five feet two, which was six inches shorter—for instance—than Worthington Gurley's height. Her weight was 108 pounds, which was 30 pounds less—for instance—than Worthington Gurley's weight. Her posture was the type whereby one can carry a book balanced on one's head, without appearing stiff or unnatural. Her figure was superb—the type that makes artists change from landscapes to figure painting—and her legs were of the classification glorified by the late Florenz Ziegfeld. All of these details, too, were rather essential to the frame-up. Another essential detail was the fact that Miss Marcia d'Alaine had the face that Shirley Temple probably will have when she grows up, and a smile that reminds one instantly of Janet Gaynor.

At a quarter of 11, Sara Sue telephoned the Montrose Plunge. "Oh, Worthington," she lamented into the transmitter. "I am terribly sorry, but I just can't get there yet. I had an emergency business call downtown, and I'm tied up. Please forgive me. Go on and swim and wait for me."
"I'm already swimming," said he. She knew that. She ascertained it from the attendant, in fact, before calling him to the phone. She had even planned it.
And now let us—as they say—shift the scene.
Let us play some bright, transitory music a la radio style, then re-focus our attention on the beautiful Montrose Plunge.
You will know, of course, that contrast is a marvelous thing. You will have observed that a Negro's white teeth always flash against his ebony skin; that a diamond takes on added worth against purple velvet; that an elephant becomes more colossal and (get this, now) a doe more graceful, when the two stand side by side. This academic consideration is important to the new scene.
There, beside the pool, stand the McKean sisters, total tonnage, 418 pounds. They are good girls, good humored. But they're colossal—in solid bright red suits.
Out of the locker room, now, comes Miss Marcia d'Alaine. Miss Marcia is willowy, slender, beautifully curved. She has on a dainty blue-and-white rubber cap from which half a dozen curls are peaking. The cap seems to make her great big eyes even bigger. She has a blue latex suit, not too daring, but form fitting, without a wrinkle anywhere.
Miss Marcia does not plant her legs 24 feet apart—the knees leaning somewhat intimately together—as if they were supports for a heavy wharf. She does not stoop both feet down flat-footed on the colored tile, and stand arms akimbo like an angry washwoman. No, she lets the McKean sisters do that. Quite unconsciously and naturally, Miss Marcia seems to flow forward, to stand daintily on one foot with the left knee bent slightly in front of the right, and to have her hands gracefully at work controlling the peeking curls—just so her pretty arms show off perfectly. This posture is not studied;

Gas in Stomach or Bloating No Longer Annoy This Lady
Tells how Vendol relieved indigestion, acid stomach, lump in throat, palpitation, belching up food and other troubles due to bad case of constipation.
"I got almost unbelievable relief by taking Vendol after I had suffered many a day from troubles in my stomach," said Mrs. Charles Worpeke, a popular young matron, with a host of friends in this city.
"Recently, it seemed most everything went wrong, and I began to suffer with indigestion that turned my food to gas and sometimes almost doubled me with cramps, nervousness that cut my sleep down terribly, spots before my eyes and bad taste in my mouth and with pains that stretched across the small of my back."
"Because I had tried so many other medicines which failed to give the desired relief, it is not surprising that I was doubtful about Vendol helping me like everyone around here was saying it did for them."
"But in two weeks, this grand medicine surely changed my mind. Now, after a few more weeks on it, my bowels are moving as they should, my digestion is equal to even the heaviest meal, nerves have quieted and I sleep, the spots before my eyes and the bad taste have vanished and the pain across my back never bothers me any more. Vendol is the best medicine ever, and I want to recommend it to both old and young people who are troubled like I used to be. I am sure Vendol will help everyone who will give it a chance."
If you need a good, safe, reliable medicine, get Vendol without delay from your nearest druggist. It is highly recommended here by MYKRANTZ DRUG STORE

DIET AND HEALTH
Happiness Is Up To Optic Thalami
By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
IF WE examine a series of brains of the lower animals in an ascending scale up to man, we find that in the lower forms the top of the brain is given over to large masses of nervous ganglia which have to do with such things as smell, vision, hearing and motor co-ordination. The higher you go, the more these ganglia are covered over by real—it is difficult to find a word for it, but we will call it "thinking" tissue. When you get to the human brain, the "thinking" tissue is a great mass on top, and the ganglia that have to do with co-ordination are almost hidden underneath it.
But they are there just the same, and very important and necessary to our happiness they are, too. You have probably never heard of one of these groups of ganglia—the optic thalami—but the life, liberty and happiness of every one of you depend upon the intactness of your optic thalami.
Co-ordination Sensation
The thalami are the centers for the co-ordination of sensation, as the cerebellum is the center for the co-ordination of motion.
It is not easy to describe just what the thalami do. They receive impressions of sense, especially those evoking pleasure and discomfort and consciousness of changes of state. Then they relay these to the higher brain centers. The higher centers are more discriminatory. For instance, if there is a disorder of the thalami, the patient says, "Something is happening to me; I am being hurt", instead of, "You are sticking a pin into the back of my hand".
The usefulness of the thalami probably lies in the absorption and sorting out of sensations. We are constantly having more sensations than we can handle. The thalami receive all these and classify them and adjudicate them. If they are important, the thalami send them up to the big boss.
The cerebellum does the same sort of thing on the motor side. To my way of thinking, the cerebellum is the most marvelous organ in the human body. It is the only one that is absolutely perfect, and woe be unto you if you lose the governing of your cerebellum.
Here is what the cerebellum does. You are sitting in your chair reading this newspaper. You decide to toss it on the chair next to you, and with uncanny accuracy it lights exactly on the seat of the chair. If you measured the exact distance, the weight of the paper and the amount of muscular force required to throw it there, and then proceeded on the basis of your mathematical calculations, the chances are your attempt would be an abysmal failure. But the cerebellum does all this calculating for you and the result is perfect. It is, you see, a combination of eye, equilibrium, awareness of muscular control and the balance of the body in space. All of the elements are centered and co-ordinated in the cerebellum.

Miss Marcia is willowy, slender, beautifully curvilinear. She has on a dainty blue-and-white rubber cap from which half a dozen curls are peaking. The cap seems to make her great big eyes even bigger. She has a blue latex suit, not too daring, but form fitting, without a wrinkle anywhere.

Miss Marcia does not plant her legs 24 feet apart—the knees leaning somewhat intimately together—as if they were supports for a heavy wharf. She does not plop both feet down flat-footed on the colored tile, and stand arms akimbo like an angry washwoman. No, she lets the McKean sisters do that. Quite unconsciously and naturally, Miss Marcia seems to flow forward, to stand daintily on one foot with the left knee bent slightly in front of the right, and to have her hands gracefully at work controlling the pecking curls—just so her pretty arms show off perfectly. This posture is not studied; it is absolutely natural, while Miss Marcia makes small talk with the fat McKean girls, with whom she is acquainted.

And across the pool, near the men's locker room, Mr. Worthington Gurley has been waiting. He is sitting on a springboard, a little disgruntled. Mr. Gurley, along with every other man in Christendom, dislikes to wait for a lady with whom he has a date. It makes him a trifle angry with her. His attention is likely to wander to anything in sight. Which fact was just ducky. Sara Sue Davis would have told you; and was, in fact, all a part of her nefarious plan.

Sara Sue doesn't come. Worthington is piqued with her, hates to be stood up. Across yonder is a perfectly lovely little girl, made more lovely by the extraordinary contrast offered by the McKean sisters. Worthington knows the McKean sisters. They see him. They introduce him to the perfectly lovely little girl. Gosh!

It turns out, remarkably, that the lovely little girl has much in common with Worthington. They both are freshmen at Rice, for instance. They are about the same age. They both swim. They both like football. They both like this and that and the other. They both dislike alcoholic liquor. And raw oysters. And Republicans. They both love to dance—isn't that a coincidence?

Remember, too, that Mr. Worthington Gurley is not only an aggressive young man, but could be called handsome, even if he is rather boyish yet. Most of the adolescent acne has disappeared from him, leaving him clean and bright. His shoulders are broadening; his arms are strong. He can do a good one-and-a-half mile swim.

You see, they are already calling each other by their first names.

The McKean sisters do some swimming of their own; or what they call swimming. But actually their mission for the day has been fulfilled. They are left somewhat alone, in the shallow end of the pool. Nobody else is swimming this early, on an autumn day. Marcia and Worthington have the entire deep end to themselves. You see, Marcia can outswim him under water, but he can outdistance her in a surface race. Do you want to learn the Australian crawl, Marcia? Look, you do like this—Say, you learn quickly, Marcia. Say, you're—gosh!

Mrs. Sara Sue Davis, Incorporated, had often said that love is the grandest thing in the world; is far too important a matter to be treated lightly or dismissed with a casual laugh.

Happiness Is Up To Optic Thalami

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

IF WE examine a series of brains of the lower animals in an ascending scale up to man, we find that in the lower forms the top of the brain is given over to large masses of nervous ganglia which have to do with such things as smell, vision, hearing and motor co-ordination. The higher you go, the more these ganglia are covered over by real—it is difficult to find a word for it, but we will call it "thinking" tissue. When you get to the human brain, the "thinking" tissue is a great mass on top, and the ganglia that have to do with co-ordination are almost hidden underneath it.

But they are there just the same, and very important and necessary to our happiness they are, too. You have probably never heard of one of these groups of ganglia—the optic thalami—but the life, liberty and happiness of every one of you depend upon the intactness of your optic thalami.

Co-ordinate Sensation

The thalami are the centers for the co-ordination of sensation, as the cerebellum is the center for the co-ordination of motion. It is not easy to describe just what the thalami do. They receive impressions of sense, especially those evoking pleasure and discomfort and consciousness of changes of state. Then they relay these to the higher brain centers. The higher centers are more discriminatory. For instance, if there is a disorder of the thalami, the patient says, "Something is happening to me; I am being hurt", instead of, "You are sticking a pin into the back of my hand".

The usefulness of the thalami probably lies in the absorption and sorting out of sensations. We are constantly having more sensations than we can handle. The thalami receive all these and classify them and adjudge them. If they are important, the thalami send them up to the big boss.

The cerebellum does the same sort of thing on the motor side. To my way of thinking, the cerebellum is the most marvelous organ in the human body. It is the only one that is absolutely perfect, and woe be unto you if you lose the governing of your cerebellum.

Here is what the cerebellum does. You are sitting in your chair reading this newspaper. You decide to toss it on the chair next to you, and with uncanny accuracy it lights exactly on the seat of the chair. If you measured the exact distance, the weight of the paper and the amount of muscular force required to throw it there, and then proceeded on the basis of your mathematical calculations, the chances are your attempt would be an abysmal failure. But the cerebellum does all this calculating for you and the result is perfect. It is, you see, a combination of eye, equilibrium, awareness of muscular control and the balance of the body in space. All of the elements are centered and co-ordinated in the cerebellum.

World At A Glance

—By—
Charles P. Stewart

"If you were running the New Deal and had the necessary authority or influence, what, in the light of the last election, would you do next?" I put this question to a friend of mine, a friend who occupies an important government post, but he probably wouldn't continue to occupy it much longer if I named him. Anyway, he understands the New Deal thoroughly, and, being an excellent liberal, is in sympathy with it in all its main essentials. "Well," he said, "I immediately would start a genuine, searching investigation of relief. I'd make it clear that I didn't care who might be hit. There undoubtedly is a widespread impression that our relief methods (not relief itself but its administration) have created a national Tammany. I don't say it's true, but I myself suspect it. I'd prove that this suspicion is unfounded, and I'd do it conclusively. Or else I'd prove that it is well founded, and let the suspects take the consequences."

"Next, our new labor laws have worked unsatisfactorily. Employers believed that they're discriminated against. I'm for compulsory collective bargaining all right, but I think maybe the workers should be required to incorporate, accepting a somewhat larger share of responsibility in return for larger rewards. And there should be better provision for mediation in capital-labor disputes. I don't mean compulsory arbitration. But the machinery for amicable adjustments should be set up. It's been done in the railroad's case, and has worked admirably, as the recent rail-wage argument's outcome has demonstrated. It should be generally applied, in labor's own interest."

AGRICULTURE'S PROBLEM

"The agricultural situation," my friend proceeded, "is a scandal."

"Let me illustrate." "The other day a chap I know asked me to join him in the purchase of a farm near Washington. 'But,' I replied, 'I'm no farmer.' 'Neither am I,' he assured me. 'We don't need to be.'"

"Then he explained. 'This place,' he said, 'can be had very reasonably. We'll plant it to bluegrass—soil conservation stuff. For conserving our soil we'll get $14 per acre from the government. In two years we'll have an area of fine sod. Such sod, in this part of the country, is salable at hard on $100 per acre. There's a machine now for scooping it up and rolling it, and it's in brisk demand. Our governmental $14 per acre for two years will about half pay for the land, then we'll get $100 per acre for the sod, and can sell the farm at a net profit—or plant more bluegrass, and go on collecting $14 per acre for the bluegrass.'"

"I don't contend," my friend added, "that sod's worth $100 per acre everywhere, but it is in this vicinity. I've no doubt that such systems, more or less modified as to local conditions, are applicable elsewhere."

Perhaps these are a few questions for Agriculture Secretary Wallace to reply to.

"And social security?" my friend supplemented. "The government collects the money, chucks it into the cash drawer, and then Treasury Secretary Morgenthau pays it out to meet current expenses, leaving nothing but I.O.U.'s in place of it. When the time comes to pay the pensions, what'll the cash drawer look like. 'That,' he concluded, 'was what the public was thinking of, rather incoherently, at the last election.'"

THERE ARE OTHER ISSUES

And there are other issues. "Sure," agreed my friend, "there are plenty of others."

"It's trite to allege that the New Deal's objectives are good," but that its methods are awful. It's a fact, nevertheless."

Can President Roosevelt correct such errors in his two years yet to go?

"There," he said, "you've got me."

"One thing—he needs older advisers."

"These young Brain Trusters are products of the hideous post-war mess. They've got no roots in rationality."

Gas in Stomach or Bloating No Longer Annoy This Lady

Tells how Vendol relieved indigestion, acid stomach, lump in throat, palpitation, belching up food and other troubles due to bad case of constipation.

"I got almost unbelievable relief by taking Vendol after I had suffered many a day from troubles in my stomach," said Mrs. Charles Worpek, a popular young matron with a host of friends in this city. "Recently, it seemed most everything went wrong, and I began to suffer with indigestion that turned my food to gas and sometimes almost doubled me with cramps, nervousness that cut my sleep down terribly, spots before my eyes and bad taste in my mouth and with pains that stretched across the small of my back."

"Because I had tried so many other medicines which failed to give the desired relief, it is not surprising that I was doubtful about Vendol helping me like everyone around here was saying it did for them."

"But in two weeks, this grand medicine surely changed my mind. Now, after a few more weeks on it, my bowels are moving as they should, my digestion is equal to even the heaviest meal, nerves have quieted and let me sleep, the spots before my eyes and the bad taste have vanished and the pain across my back never bothers me any more. Vendol is the best medicine ever, and I want to recommend it to both old and young people who are troubled like I used to be. I am sure Vendol will help everyone who will give it a chance."

APPLICATIONS BEING RECEIVED FOR LOANS UNDER NEW CROP PROGRAM

DEFINITE DATE FOR PAYMENT OF CASH UNCERTAIN

Rate Of 57 Cents Bushel Figured For Ohioans By U. S. Officials

Preliminary applications for loans of 57 cents a bushel on the 1938 corn crop were being received Friday by the Pickaway County Agricultural Conservation administration.

Paul Mattheas, secretary of the county administration, said applications were being received but no definite date has been announced for payment of the loans. He believed payments would be made about the middle of December.

An announcement from Columbus Friday, stated that Administrator C. W. Van Schoik of the Federal Soil Conservation administration is endeavoring to work out a method whereby farmers could obtain loans in banks instead of going through the administration's financial agencies. Applications, Mr. Mattheas said, must be filed with the local administrator.

"We are endeavoring" Mr. Van Schoik said, "to make it possible for the farmer to apply to his local bank for crop loans and receive his money without either waiting or red tape."

"Tentatively the program involves the same discount rate, 4 percent, as the soil conservation agencies, with 2 1/2 percent by the administration's financial agencies."

"The banks, when they wish to do so, may turn the paper over to the administration and collect their money plus 2 1/2 percent interest for the time they have held the loan," Mr. Van Schoik said that soil conservation administration officials in Pickaway county now have all details of the wheat allotment program of the soil conservation administration in their hands and would shortly be able to determine locally the amount of money which would be available in Pickaway county from the wheat restriction program which is expected to give more than $8,000,000 in federal aid to Ohio's wheat farmers.

MOTHER AND FIVE CHILDREN KILLED BY STOVE BLAST

AMSTERDAM, N. Y., Nov. 25—(UP)—A mother and her five children, huddled around an oil stove while the season's most severe snowstorm howled outside, were killed when the stove exploded.

The victims all were showered with flaming oil. They were: Mrs. Carrie DeRose, 27; Edward, 9; Dorothy, 8; Carl, 6; James, 3; and Michael, 2.

The stove apparently exploded when Mrs. DeRose attempted to obtain additional heat from it. The DeRoses occupied one flat in the four-family tenement.

Neighbors heard the explosion and called police and firemen. The fire which resulted from the explosion was confined to the kitchen. The mother and children were rushed to the hospital shortly before midnight. They died during the morning.

CITIES CRIPPLED, TRAFFIC HALTED BY GREAT STORM

Score Killed In New York, Boston, Other Major Centers

were missing. All New York state police were out doing rescue work throughout the night. Snow drifts were four feet deep on the highways and the pavement below was coated with ice.

Automobile accidents had killed at least 11 in New England, four in Pennsylvania and four in the New York City area. In addition, scores were injured in wrecks, and there was a series of fires, attributed to overheated furnaces, throughout the night in all metropolitan areas of the East.

New England compared the storm with the great blizzard of '88, which occurred 50 years ago tomorrow. The snow was whipped by near gale winds. In Connecticut, many snow plows were stuck in drifts. Trains were delayed from half an hour to more than two hours and the Banker and Montreuil of the New Haven railroad were reported far behind schedule.

Thousands of New England workers were forced to walk to work. All small boats had deserted Long Island sound for the shelter of ports.

New York state police urged all motorists to keep off the roads. Trolleys and buses in Albany, Troy and Schenectady were still maintaining schedules, but operators doubted they could continue to do so for long, unless the storm abated.

The first relief was felt in New York City shortly before 8 a. m., when the snow stopped and the sun broke through thinning clouds. The storm had struck in the mid-afternoon of the holiday, when traffic was at its peak and crowds were gathering at football games. Many New York City residents who had spent the holiday upstate, were 'marooned. Hunters were snow-bound in the Adirondack lodges.

Typical temperatures were: Rochester, 6; Buffalo, 7.8; Syracuse 13; New York 22.

Icy roads, streets and sidewalks with the temperature below the freezing line was the weatherman's contribution to the celebration of Thanksgiving in Circleville and Pickaway county.

The highest reading Thursday was 32 degrees. Friday morning the mercury hit a new low for the season of 19 degrees. The snow that fell Thursday melted sufficiently to freeze and make driving hazardous. Precipitation in the 24 hours previous to 8 a. m. Friday amounted to a half inch, Dr. H. R. Clarke reported.

The state weather bureau predicted higher temperatures for Friday afternoon with the mercury scheduled to make another slide Saturday.

members of the board of education of Wayne township, county commissioners and the contractor for the highway improvement, The Lewis & Frisinger Co., of Ann Arbor, Mich. A representative of the firm having insurance for the contractor will be invited.

The recent closing of Route 22 has been opposed by farm groups and businessmen who believe the highway should be kept open to traffic as long as possible. Traffic over the highway must detour through Fox. It is contended the road, if properly guarded, could be kept open. Provisions were not made in the contract, it was explained, for the road to be open to traffic while work is under way.

Mr. Smith said developments in the campaign Friday, gave bright prospects of the road being reopened.

NEW CHAMPIONS CLAIM PLACES ON OHIO GRIDS

COLUMBUS, Nov. 28—(UP)—Ohio drew the curtain on the 1938 football drama today and hailed four new college champions—Western Reserve, the University of Dayton, Ohio U., and Jerry Williams, brilliant Miami half-back.

Reserve behaved like the undisputed mythical state champion it is and came from behind Thursday to down a fighting Case eleven, 13 to 3, to remain the only unbeaten-untied college team in Ohio.

The Flyers of Dayton bombed Ohio Wesleyan, 25 to 0, and joined Ohio U. as co-titleholders in the Buckeye conference. It was the first loop crown for the Flyers since entering the league in 1934. Ohio won its share last Saturday.

Williams' undisputed claim to the state individual scoring championship was slightly tentative with Bill Beach, Toledo sophomore, having one more game. But the husky Miami Negro took a 17-point margin over Beach by turning in 9 points to pace the Redskins to a 16 to 7 victory over Cincinnati Thursday. Toledo will not finish its season until Dec. 3 against St. Mary's at San Antonio, Texas.

A touchdown and a 20-yard field goal booted on a wet field gave Williams 79 points for the season to top Johnny Ries of Reserve in second place with 72 and Len Janiak, Ohio U., with 71.

NEW YORK ODDS SUPPORT CHAMP AGAINST GARCIA

NEW YORK, Nov. 25—(UP)—Disregarding the old one about how a good big man can always lick a good little man, the citizens of New York and way stations made little Henry Armstrong practically a 2 to 1 favorite today over big Ceferino Garcia in their 15-round fight for the welterweight championship tonight.

It was a far more eloquent tribute to Armstrong than the tough little Negro ever heard in a blood-spattered ring—this before-the-battle betting in which, truly, money talks louder than words.

For the customers are stringing along with Henry the Hammer in a fight against a bigger, heavier man. Garcia stands almost two inches taller than Armstrong, he will outweigh him by approximately nine pounds and he will bring into the ring a twisting right uppercut, which is called a bolo punch and is almost as deadly as the Philippine cane-cutting knife for which it was named.

The Mecca Restaurant will have Tom and Jerry at their counter, Saturday. —ad.
